Chapter 419: The Power Hierarchy of Sung Jin-Woo's Creations

The Angels: The Pinnacle of Perfection

Sung Jin-Woo’s later creations, the angels, were forged with his advanced divine knowledge, making them far superior to earlier creations such as the Apostles of God.

Even the lowest tier of angels, those with two wings, possessed raw power and abilities that far exceeded those of the six-winged Apostles of God. This evolution of creation reflected Sung Jin-Woo's growing mastery over divine energy and his vision of perfection.

Two-Winged Angels: Capable of harnessing the full spectrum of divine energy, their abilities in both offense and defense rendered them unstoppable forces.

Six-Winged Angels: Their presence alone could tilt the balance of entire realms. They were not just warriors but embodiments of Sung Jin-Woo’s will, capable of reshaping entire universes with their power.

The Apostles of God: The Former Elite

The Apostles of God, though once considered the mightiest among Sung Jin-Woo's creations, were now overshadowed by the angels. However, their strength still vastly exceeded most other beings across the multiverse.

Six-Winged Apostles: Supreme commanders among the Apostles, capable of overwhelming even large groups of heavenly soldiers.

Two to Four-Winged Apostles: Powerful entities, their combat prowess unmatched by most beings outside of the Divine Triad’s creations.

In battles, a group of six-winged Apostles of God could defeat hundreds of two or four-winged heavenly soldiers with relative ease. Yet even these Apostles would struggle against a single two-winged angel.

The Heavenly Soldiers: The Foundational Army

As some of the earliest creations of the Divine Triad, the heavenly soldiers served as the backbone of the multiverse’s defense forces. While not as powerful as the Apostles or the angels, their strength still dwarfed that of most creatures in existence.

Two-Winged Heavenly Soldiers: Exceptional fighters, often deployed in vast armies to guard realms and maintain order.

Four-Winged Heavenly Soldiers: Elite among their kind, capable of leading forces and holding their own against multiversal threats.

Despite their strength, a group of four-winged heavenly soldiers could not hope to match a single six-winged Apostle of God.

The Hierarchy of Power

1. Angels: The apex of creation, embodying raw power, intelligence, and perfection. Even the weakest angel surpasses the strongest Apostle of God.

2. Apostles of God: Elite warriors of the Divine Triad, serving as generals and guardians of the multiverse.

3. Heavenly Soldiers: The multiverse’s steadfast protectors, ensuring stability and peace across realms.

A Testament to Sung Jin-Woo’s Evolution

The progression in the power of his creations demonstrated Sung Jin-Woo’s growth as the God of Creation and Abundance. Each successive generation of beings reflected his increasing understanding of divine energy and his ability to craft lifeforms of unparalleled might.

"Perfection is not a destination but a journey," Sung Jin-Woo declared, gazing upon the countless realms filled with his creations. "And with every creation, I take another step toward the infinite."

This balance of power ensured the stability of the multiverse and beyond, as the Divine Triad’s creations upheld order, serving their purpose with unwavering loyalty.
